

I wanted to weigh on my concern on the ongoing consolidation in the media market, particularly in radio. The quality of broadcasting here in California has gone down significantly, especially with the replacement of local radio with satellite feeds. I now have even greater concern with the FCC considering even LOOSER restrictions on the ownership of multiple stations in the same market.

I urge the DCC to reconsider this idea, and instead move to create a market that will help foster local radio that better represents citizens, rather than a market where the public's airwaves are treated as a commodity.

Thanks

Keith.
